A focused start. A measurable next step.

Choose a recurring process with a known owner and observable friction. Define what success means, compare assisted work with the baseline and use the results to guide the next decision.

ONE WORKFLOW. A CLEAR START.

Which recurring delay is worth solving first?

01

Frame the work

Choose one workflow, a process owner, approved sources and a baseline sample.

02

Test with people

Agree on scope, roles and review points. Observe accuracy and review effort.

03

Decide from evidence

Compare the results. Expand, revise or stop based on agreed criteria.

MAKE THE VALUE VISIBLE

Bring a process owner, representative users and a technical contact. Share an approved example of the work and where it slows down. Together, define scope, dependencies, cost and timing.

MEASURE THE CHANGE

Completion time
Accuracy and rework
Reviewer effort

Bring one workflow. Leave with a clearer starting point.
